Are solar panels a scam?

Here's how to steer clear of the scams: Do some research. Avoid solar companies that say a government program will cover the whole cost of solar panels -- or say they're from (or affiliated with) the government. These are lies. If you're looking at solar energy for your home, get quotes from reputable providers with a valid license.

Is BT solar a scam?

This is a common scam. Last year there were letters claiming to be from the ' British Trading Solar Association (BTSA)', warning that your solar warranty was due to expire. The MCS issued a statement about this fraudulent activity and the company - which is actually BT Solar Ltd - received a warning from the ASA about misleading advertising.

Are you getting ripped off when buying solar panels?

Solar is expensive, no matter how you shake it. And savings sound nice, but if you get stuck with an overpriced solar panel system that's underperforming, you're going to save much less. That's why we put together these tips to avoid getting ripped off when buying solar panels -- backed by expert advice.

How do I know if my solar panel is bad?

If you're concerned, contact your installer in the first instance or a recommended solar panel firm. If there is a problem with your system this will often be indicated by a fault code on the inverter. More than half of solar panel owners have had cold calls about their solar pv panels.

Are salespeople flouting the solar tax credit?

Going in with a strong understanding of some key solar topics can help you spot when a salesperson is flouting those guidelines. Salespeople are likely to tout the federal solar tax credit. When you install solar panels (and certain other related technology) you receive a portion of the cost back on your taxes.
